

Important Notice

Ya'at'eeh,

As of November 16th to December 6th, To'Hajiilee Community School is adhering to the newly released stay at home order from the Navajo Nation government. The Navajo Nation President wants to mitigate this invisible threat that is currently affecting our population at an extreme rate. To'Hajiilee Community School is operated on the Navajo reservation and must function solely online. Remote Learning will continue without disruption and classes will be conducted as scheduled.

Our teachers have been working from home, but because of the safety mandates from the Navajo Nation, our essential employees will be asked to tele-work from their respective areas. School lunches and homework packets will not be delivered at this time as the school is slowly transitioning to Google Classroom to decrease paper transfer and handling. TCS is currently vacant and our phone calls will go unanswered until December 6th, but that doesn't mean you cannot get in contact with us if assistance is needed! Please email the appropriate person for your question or concern.

Students and parents, if you have any additional questions about homework or classwork please refer to our Educational Packet Contact List.

Thank you!
